Animal Extinction:

One of the big problems on Earth at the moment is the extinction of animals. Extinctions are becoming more and more common because of climate change. For example, most animals in the arctic or cold areas are dying because of global warming. The poster shows examples of animals that are dangerously almost extinct. There are more than 47,000 species that are threatened by extinction in the world. We need to stop polluting because it doesn't only affect nature and humans, it affects animals a lot too.
